JMIR Cancer

Patient-centered innovations, education, and technology for cancer care, cancer survivorship, and cancer research.

Open access | Peer reviewed | PubMed Central and PubMed, Scopus, DOAJ, MEDLINE, and ESCI (Clarivate) indexed

JMIR Cancer publishes peer-reviewed scientific work on education, innovation, and technology in cancer care and self-management support, cancer survivorship and self-care, cancer screening and prevention, and participatory and patient-centered approaches. JMIR Cancer also publishes studies on approaches that effectively improve cancer care and health services research that may not necessarily involve technology or the internet, yet still incorporates innovative or emerging methods or approaches. The journal publishes "Patients' Corner" as a dedicated space for patients with cancer, cancer survivors, and caregivers to share viewpoints and lived experiences, which could include suggestions for enhancing the healthcare system and proposing new technologies, applications, and approaches.
